MARYVILLE, MISSOURI, MONDAY, NOV. 3, 1924

NO. 6.

M. S. T. A. WILL MEET IN K. C.

Many Faculty Members Will Attend and Take Part on Program—S. T. C. Luncheon Friday Noon at Baltimore Hotel—Good Program Offered.

The Missouri State Teachers' Association to be held in Kansas City, November 13-15 promises to be of unusual interest. The slogan, "Big Ideas Ably Presented" is significant.

The general plan of the Association this year differs somewhat from that of previous years. At the first general session, Thursday morning, November 13, there will be three prominent speakers—Superintendent Charles A. Lee, Supt. Fred M. Hunter of Oakland, California, and Sherman Rogers, editor of the "Outlook" and president of the "Optimist International."

On Thursday afternoon the association will be divided into six special groups: Vocational Education, Problems in Method, Problems in Supervision, Curriculum Making, Physical and Health Education, and Rural School Problems.

Instead of the usual general session on Friday morning, there will be three large group meetings: Kindergarten and Primary; Elementary; and Junior and Senior High School. Friday afternoon will be devoted to departmental meetings, in which Missouri's educational problems both state and local will be discussed.

Many members of our S. T. C. faculty will attend the meeting and several will appear on the program of these various groups and sections. Miss Teagarden, instructor in the home economics department of the college will speak on "Home Economics Ideas" at the departmental meeting Friday afternoon, November 14. Dean Barnard will speak before a group of the Missouri Deans of Women. Her subject will be "High Lights of the National Convention of Deans of Women." Mr. Phillips instructor in physical education and hygiene, will be on the program for the high school section and will discuss, "Health and Physical Education."

The Rural School Problems group which meets Thursday afternoon will be presided over by President Lamkin. Miss DeLuce is chairman of the college fine arts section and will charge of the program for that division.

Our local faculty furnishes the association with several of its officers. President Lamkin is a member of the Executive Committee which meets on Tuesday prior to the Association meeting. Miss Anthony is a member of the executive committee of the home economics section of the association. Miss Dykes is treasurer of the Missouri Council of Teachers of English. Miss Katherine Franken, secretary of the Missouri University Division.

The College will be represented in the House of Delegates, the body which conducts the business of the association, by Miss Anthony and Mr. Loomis. President Lamkin will go as a Nodaway County delegate. Mr. Phillips and Mr. Bert Cooper are alternates from the county association.

Many groups, or committees, have been appointed by State Superintendent Lee for the revision of courses of study. Mr. Phillips is chairman of the health and physical education committee. The group appointed to work out a curriculum for mathematics in high school, and the group appointed to plan a syllabus for algebra in junior high schools will be attended by Mr. Colbert, Dean of Faculty. Mr. Foster is on a committee to plan a state course of study in European and World History. Miss Winn is on the committee to reorganize the English work in the high schools of the state. Mr. Gardner will go as a member of a Committee to work out a course of study in Music for junior and senior high schools.

Other members of the faculty who at the time of going to press had decided to attend the Kansas City meeting are: Dr. Fred Keller, Miss Dora B. Smith, Miss Manley, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Miller, Miss Bowman, and Miss Painter.

The college will maintain its headquarters in Parlor B, of the Muehlebach Hotel while the association is in session. The S. T. C. luncheon which will be given at the Baltimore Hotel Friday at 12:30 is in charge of a committee composed of Mr. Bert Cooper, Chairman, Miss Anthony and Mr. Loomis.

OUR NEW TOWER QUEEN

IRENE LOWRY IS OUR TOWER QUEEN

A True Blue Daughter of S. T. C. Wins After A Heated Campaign.

Irene Lowry was chosen Tower Queen at the election held by the student body last Wednesday. Her victory was probably due to the fact that five college organizations were supporting her. The Y. W. C. A., The Y. M. C. A., The Senior Class, The Philomathian Literary Society and the Library force all pledged their support as soon as Miss Lowry was nominated.

Miss Lowry is a Maryville girl and a member of the Senior Class. She has always taken a prominent part in school activities and has won her many friends by her pleasing personality and her sympathetic attitude. At the beginning of the fall quarter, she was one of the "Big Sisters," who helped welcome the new students.

The Sophomores and Juniors began their campaign some two weeks ago, but the Seniors conserved their energy until Monday of last week. They began a very mild campaign by placing a few pictures of their candidate in the hall. Tuesday, they added more enthusiasm to their campaign by distributing all-day suckers, which were tagged, "A thousand licks for Lowry."

The program consisted of a piano solo by Mary Ruth Curfman and a debate: "Resolved that the United States should grant the Philippines their immediate independence. Affirmative: Wilson Craig and Margaret Mills; negative Melvin Rogers and Zelma Goslee. The affirmative won.

MISS IRENE LOWRY

PHILOMATHIAN NOTES.

The Philomathian Literary Society met Thursday afternoon, October 30. Everett Wright and Helen Naill signed the roll.

The program consisted of a piano solo by Mary Ruth Curfman and a debate: "Resolved that the United States should grant the Philippines their immediate independence. Affirmative: Wilson Craig and Margaret Mills; negative Melvin Rogers and Zelma Goslee. The affirmative won.

Philomatheans Give Assembly Program

One of the most interesting programs of the year was given last Wednesday morning at 10:00 o'clock, in the auditorium when the Philomathian Literary Society entertained the assembly with special numbers by its various members.

Preceding the main program, all the society members marched down the left aisle to the front seats, singing "The Philos Are a Lively Crowd." Their second song was "Philos Philo's I've Been Thinking." They were accompanied by Orpha Stewart at the piano.

Fred Nelson then opened the program with a short talk on "The Aim of Our Society."

Oma Ross played a violin solo: "Minuet in G," accompanied by Lucille Hackett. Elizabeth Mills sang, "My Dreams" and as an encore she sang "You'd Better Ask Me." Margaret Mills played the accompaniment.

Lois Lawson gave the reading "A Stranger Within Our Gates."

Florine Pollard rendered a piano solo; "Habeneva."

As a final number on the program, the Philomathian Trio, composed of Lorene Maxey, Elizabeth Mills, and Zelma Neal, sang "Old Carolina." For an encore they sang "My Lady Chio." Margaret Mills played their accompaniment.

The assembly was opened with the reading of the scripture, the first four verses from the nineteenth Psalm and a prayer by Mr. Lessom.

President Lamkin spoke for a few minutes urging all students to vote at the election November 4. He explained the ballot, showing students how to vote a straight or a split ticket. He also summarized the amendments to be voted on and urged all to study them. He closed by saying, "Vote us you please, but vote."

Mr. H. T. Phillips of the College attended the American Child Health Association in Kansas City, October 14-16. The convention was outstanding because of its character which is national in scope. Among the prominent speakers on the program were Herbert Hoover; Dr. Thomas Wood, Columbia University; Dr. George E. Vincent, President of Rockefeller Foundation, N. Y. City; Chancellor E. H. Linley, University of Kansas; and Barry C. Smith, Director of Commonwealth Fund, New York City.

Josephine Miller, Graduate of S. T. C. music department, who is now instructor of Music in the Boleckow Public Schools spent the week end, Oct. 26-27 with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Miller, of Maryville.

More than three million rural boys and girls in one-room schools are under teachers who have never completed their high school education.

President Lamkin will speak to the Oklahoma Teachers' Association at Tulsa, Oklahoma, November 14.

A. A. U. W. HAS GOOD MEETING

Dr. Lois Meek, National Educational Secretary Presented the Subject of Pre-School Education—1925 Convention Goes to Springfield.

The American Association of University Women held their state meeting at the college, Friday and Saturday, October 31-November 1.

At 12:30 a luncheon was given at the College Residence with the Maryville branch as hostesses. Dean Barnard served as toastmistress. Miss Smith welcomed the visitors and Miss Fitzgerald, state president, responded.

"Pre-school education is the most challenging of all education," said Dr.

Lois Meek, the National Educational

Secretary of the A. A. U. W. at the education session Friday afternoon, October 31.

"Many people think of pre-school education as including reading, writing and arithmetic but this is entirely wrong. Pre-school education is habitation and building. Learning begins at birth. So the home is responsible for the formation of habits of the child that are to influence the rest of his life.

That all habits are learned has been proven by psychologists. Dr. Meek gave the example of a child that feared a sudden noise but was not afraid of animals. A rabbit was given the child. Soon the child became afraid of the rabbit as well. All fears are built up in this way.

Fears may be torn down with very careful work. If a child fears a rabbit, produce the rabbit at the same time that something pleasing is given. In this instance a rabbit was brought into the room at the time the child was having his milk and crackers. At first the child cried but hunger was stronger than the fear so the child began eating his milk and crackers. Each day this was repeated and gradually the rabbit was brought closer. One day the rabbit was not brought in; the child said, "Where's bunny?" The rabbit was brought in and the child stroked it while eating.

Parents must be educated to know how habits are formed and help to form good ones. Nursery schools are splendid if the parents' co-operation is secured. But if the school is forming one set of habits and the home another set then they are very pernicious.

Ten times are more deaths occur between the ages of one and five than between five and fifteen. Eighty percent of the defects of school children are former during the pre-school age. This age is the most important from the physical and mental phases.

Miss Gruenwald of Warrensburg gave an illustrated lecture, using a set of slides that the Warrensburg branch had collected from various colleges. These slides were collected to be shown to girls of high school age to help them choose a college. These slides may be borrowed from the Warrensburg branch of the A. A. U. W. by any other branch that may wish to use them.

Reports of the activities and plans were given by the districts represented. The aim of all districts seemed to be to interest high school girls in college life and help them to choose a college to attend.

The question of admitting teachers college graduates to the A. A. U. W. was discussed. One reason that S. T. C. graduates are excluded from the organization is because a woman is not on the managing board of the colleges. Definite steps were taken to have this requirement met. Miss Laura D. Hawkins of the Maryville Branch presided.

The Seniors lost the rest of their dignity in an exciting game of "Flyin Dutchman." But it took only a "First call for Supper" to end it.

A fire had been built and sticks provided. The Seniors were soon watching the "dripping drip" from crisp bacon, lying beside plump wienies. These they "stuck in a bun, snatched a pickle, filled a cup with elder and "fell to!" There were doughnuts too; Lorone Hartley tasted toasted one for the first time.

As the fire died down, the class, led by Arthur Elmore, sang several songs and yelled for the Tower Queen. The Sponsors, and the Bearcats before dispersing.

This delightful picnic was planned by the first social group appointed by the President for this purpose. Its members were Zelma Goslee, LaDonia Murphy, Helen Baker, Eulie Ramsey, Arthur Elmore, Hazel Cox, E. F. Daniel, and Orville Sutterlin.

Miss Dykes spoke of the abilities of the Scandinavian women. They are ideal hostesses, perfect organizers, and in entertainment, the smallest detail is carefully considered. To show their appreciation of the way in which they

COLLEGE CONDUCTS EDUCATIONAL LAB.

Opportunity Given to Students To Observe Practical Methods.

That the College is maintaining a real laboratory of education, and one that is most successful, is beyond all doubt when the routine and management of the experimental rural school in Room 124 is observed. The College is fortunate in securing as supervisor of this classroom, Miss Mary E. Keith, B. S., University of Missouri.

Practically every department in the College is connected with the school by means of practice teachers who are giving the highest type of instruction. Besides serving as a training school for teachers, the school affords classes of theory an opportunity to observe and obtain first hand information on the technique of teaching and general management of the classroom. For the past two weeks Miss Shepherd's "Principles of Teaching" and "School Economy" classes have been observing the following points: Opening exercises, inductive teaching, drill lessons, reading, association of ideas, the assignment, and classroom management.

That the school is growing more popular is evidenced by an increased enrollment of seven per cent.

At present a project is being worked out by the third grade geography class supervised by Catherine Harrison, on "Food, Clothing, and Shelter of the Indian." It is being developed by means of sand table study and correlation with other subjects, particularly language.

Folk dancing is being emphasized this week in plays and games, directed by Gladys New, a practice teacher who is majoring in Physical Education.

The Librarian's First Duty Is To Serve You

What would happen if the S. T. C. library force decided to go on a strike? If you planned to go to the library at seven o'clock some cold, frosty morning and upon your arrival found that "Mac" McNulty had not arrived, and that there was no one there to answer your numerous questions, or hunt your reference books, what would you do?

The library opens at 7 a. m. and remains open, with Mr. Wells and his assistants in charge until 6:00 p. m.

Here you may go and find anything from Fairy Tales to Books on Philosophy. This year, 1233 volumes have been added and new books are constantly arriving.

The library force was organized at the beginning of the fall quarter. John DeMotte is in charge of the Magazines and Pamphlets, Floyd Harvey the Reserve Shelf and Mervin McNulty the Stacks. Irene Lowry is in charge of the cataloging; Dorothy England, the charging desk; and Violet Anderson attends to the fines. Hattie Mae Woodward, Sam Evans and Lorene Maxey, also assist several hours a day.

Social Science Has Program on Election

The Social Science Club was delightfully entertained Thursday, October 30 by Mr. and Mrs. Cauffield at their home on North Market street.

A timely program was rendered. Mr. Foster gave an able talk on "Election in the House." Hazel Hiatt explained "Absentee Voting," and Ethel Kaufman talked on "Educational Tests for Voters." Garland Miller condemned the slogan of "My Party, Right or Wrong," and John DeMotte spoke on "Election Figures."

The secretary read a letter of thanks from Mr. Partch a former instructor for the gift of flowers sent by the club to his wife. He wrote that Mrs. Partch is improving.

After the program refreshments of ice-cream and cakes were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Wallin and Mrs. Foster. Each guest on leaving, was presented with a dainty, candy-filled basket, as a souvenir.

The Club always welcomes visitors to its meetings. The next session will be on November 20, unless otherwise announced.

Mr. Richardson, of the state department, and Mr. Phillips are to gather data in two counties in this district in connection with the Missouri school survey.

David Nicholson spent the week-end, October 25-26 at his home near Hopkins.

Mr. Halley Addresses The Joint Y. Assemby

"You ought to be familiar with the actual contents of the Bible, even if you do not understand it all," was the advice given by the Rev. H. H. Halley of Chicago at joint meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A., in Room 122 last Tuesday morning. Mr. Halley said further, "A study of the Book is a life-time job, but we are amply repaid for our efforts. The Bible has given the world our best civilization and as we study it more and understand it better, our civilization grows better."

Mr. Halley who is conducting a "Bible revival" at the First Christian Church here is said to be able to quote more from that Book than any other living person. He grips his hearers by his seemingly endless quotations, only occasionally stopping for a word of explanation. The speaker chose to recite some of the sayings of Jesus and some of the proverbs of Solomon. The latter, he declared, were some of the best guides for young men and women.

Mr. Halley was introduced by Mr. H. A. Miller of the faculty. The opening number of the program was a song "O, Come All Ye Faithful" by the audience led by Alyce Allen. Scripture reading from the fifth chapter of Matthew was read by Sam Evans. Prayer was offered by the Rev. R. E. Snodgrass of the Maryville Christian Church. The closing number was a vocal solo by Christine Goff accompanied by Orpha Stewart.

S. T. C. Trains Leaders For Teachers Ass'n.

All of the presidents of the Northwest Missouri District Teachers Association have either been graduates of the S. T. C. or have at some time been connected with S. T. C.

Ira Richardson, former president of the college, served as temporary chairman of the organization in 1917. Mr. Richardson is at present Professor of Education in Reed College, Portland, Oregon.

A. Boyd, former superintendent of schools at Albany, Missouri, and former summer school teacher at the college, acted as chairman during 1918-19. He is now principal of Union High School, Lamar, Colorado. He is also a contributor to school journals.

Myrtle McPherson Pangburn, chairman in 1920, is residing at Pattonsburg, Missouri. She has been superintendent of schools at Martinsville, and at Darlington. She is a graduate of S. T. C.

Eugert Jennings, graduate of S. T. C. and former college teacher, is superintendent of schools at Kennett, Missouri. Mr. Jennings is one of the leading school men of south east Missouri. He was chairman of the association in 1921.

S. C. Richeson, summer school faculty member, was chairman in 1922. He is a graduate of S. T. C. At present he is state high school inspector for this district.

Ed Adams, graduate of S. T. C., and present superintendent of schools at Tarkio, served as president in 1923.

J. W. Pierce, S. T. C. graduate, chairman in 1924, is superintendent of schools at Skidmore. Mr. Pierce has held the latter position for nine years.

COLLEGE OATH

"We will never bring disgrace to this our College by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the College. We will revere and obey the College laws, and do our best to incite a like respect and reverence in others. We will strive unceasingly to quicken the students' sense of duty. We will transmit this College to those who come after us greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

A. A. U. W. Has Good Meeting

Were entertained, the American women collected $1000 for an international fellowship open to all the constituent federations and called it in honor of the hostesses the "Scandinavian Fellowship."

Many interesting speakers attended the convention. Miss Dykes mentioned specially Dr. Sturgeon, professor at London University and President of the International Federation of University Women; Dr. Kristine Bonnevie president of the Norwegian federation and also a noted scientist; Professor Loschi of Rome; Dean Gildersleeve who was elected president for coming two years; Dr. Gleditsch, first vice president of the International Federation; Mrs. Corbett Ashby, president of the International Woman's Suffrage Alliance and Miss Yang, a Chinese girl who is a Y. W. C. A. secretary in China.

The members of the International Federation come from twenty countries. They have more than 27,000 members. They are doing a great work in bringing together the educated women of the world, hoping thus to bring the nations into a closer fellowship.

Miss Win's subject was "International Problems." The first problem was that of developing the international mind, which involves a willingness to work for the good of all nations. The federation hopes to bring this about by providing for an exchange of teachers and students; by establishing club houses, and by endowing fellowships and scholarships. These will promote friendships. The success of this plan was evident by the spirit shown during the convention.

This was a body of people who believed in each other and trusted each other. They really do not care about international understanding and friendship. A body of educated people from twenty nations who believe in each other and trust each other make a powerful instrument for good. The convention itself was a league of nations as it could exist only as a relation between nations. Here the spirit of nationalism and the spirit of internationalism are to be seen side by side closely akin in reality.

The university women of north Ireland and of south Ireland made plans for an Irish federation; thus university women of Ireland are putting down a big paving stone in the way of conciliation. The Austrian and Czech delegates, inspired by the atmosphere of the conference, got together and worked out a plan for the representation of the German speaking women of Czechoslovakia.

A subsidiary problem is that of an international language. One great cause of misunderstanding is that fact that we speak so many languages that are unintelligible to others. If we could speak one language which all could understand, we should be that much nearer to the time when all nations will be friends. So important was this considered that committee was appointed to act with the League of Nations committee which is investigating the question of an auxiliary language.

The League of Nations also has a committee of intellectual co-operation made up of fourteen members representing various branches of science and the arts. This committee has already compiled a scientific bibliography; worked out proposals for safeguarding scientific property; and has begun the establishment of interrelations between the universities in order that for the future they may be guided by a spirit of human solidarity and condemn the degradation of science for destructive purposes. The convention appointed a standing committee to cooperate with this league committee on intellectual co-operation.

The second problem was that of training women in order that they can take part in the world's work. They should give them a broad, unbiased view, control of their complexes, self-confidence, and a love for work. It will open up opportunities for women in the political world as well as in the business world.

Politics is a field of the world's work that needs women. A political career can be either a whole time or a part time job. The fields of national insurance and health are two government activities women should take a large part in. The League of Nations has opened up an international field in which much excellent work has already been done by women.

Politics are not dirty; it is treachery to one's country to say politics must lower your moral standards. In the political world today nothing is needed so badly as moral courage and a passionate devotion to truth. Universsity women must get into parties and make them what they wish them to be. It is the statesman's business to find solutions to problems and it is the politicians business to induce the people to assent to these solutions. The education of the statesman the politician is the work of the universities for the best minds should be employed to study political difficulties and to direct the machinery of government if that machinery is not to break-down.

University trained women who go into politics should be able to distinguish between a patriotism which serves our country and the world and a provincial nationalism which will destroy our own country along with the rest of the world.

Miss Winn and Miss Dykes both emphasized the fact that the International Federation was doing a great work by bringing the educated women of the world into a closer understanding and friendship and expressed the belief that twenty-seven thousand women were going to have a marked influence in bringing about mutual understanding among nations through their program of developing an international mind.

Miss Meek, in speaking of the beginning and growth of the American Association of University Women, said that it began in 1882 with seventeen members. Its membership has reached 20,531. It has 289 branches in the United States. At present the organization is working hard to raise the educational and social standards of state teachers colleges and technical schools in order that their graduates may be admitted as members of the association. They are asking for the recognition of women on faculties and boards of regents, asking for trained deans, especially in co-educational schools, and endeavoring to create a greater interest in the training of women for the work of the elementary schools.

Miss DeLuce spoke briefly of the National Convention at Washington, D. C. Among other things she said, "The National Club House is a certainty but Missouri should do even more than she has pledged. The money for the Club House is incidental. The main thing is the co-operation of the women of the various colleges."

Miss Ruth Fitzgerald, state president acted as toast mistress during the banquet owing to the absence of Mrs. Roscoe Anderson.

Miss Shepherd of Maryville gave a powerful address on "Rural School Conditions" Saturday morning.

A physician must tell the unpleasant in order to get corrected. For the same reason Miss Shepherd painted a very unpleasant but true picture of rural school conditions. Rural schools of Missouri are using eighteenth century buildings, management and teaching methods. A rural school boy or girl is worth as much to the state as a boy or girl in Kansas City or St. Louis and should receive as good instruction.

Most rural schools of Missouri have poor buildings, uncomfortable seats, library, no sanitary drinking fountain, no wells, unsanitary toilets and the poorest teachers the state affords.

Miss Shepherd gave the following ways by which these schools may be improved. The state superintendent should be selected by a state board of education. He should be the best educator that the board is able to buy any place in the United States. A man trained for the job is better than a man from the state untrained for the place.

The county superintendent should be chosen in the same way and should be one who can supervise teaching and not have to use his time doing clerical work. As the laws now stand the superintendents have their hands tied, they can not do more than visit schools.

Missouri was infuriated when in the U. S. survey they were placed thirty-fourth in rank among the states. But they killed the one bill that would have corrected some of this, namely the County Unit Bill.

The community school Bill drawn by Sup'r Lee will help to put Missouri on a better educational basis. This bill provides for equal opportunities for every child in the state of Missouri. High schools will be accessible for every child, and better teachers can be obtained.

Daniel dreamed of a statue with head of gold, hands of silver, body of brass, legs of iron, and feet of clay. A stone not cut by hands came and destroyed the statue. The universities are the head of gold, the colleges the hands of silver, the high schools the body of brass, the elementary schools the legs of iron and the rural schools the feet of clay. Because of this weakness a stone uncut by hands will destroy our democracy.

Routine business was transacted and the amendments to the constitution were adopted. A committee made up of Miss Winn, Miss DeLuce of Maryville, and Miss Shea of Cape Girardeau was appointed to prepare bylaws to be submitted to the next convention.

Mrs. Parish, Vandalia; Mrs. Trenholm, Columbia; and Miss Winn, Maryville are the committee on nominations which will report at the next convention in Springfield in the fall of 1925.

The last social event of the meeting was the luncheon at Residence Hall with the college as host.

EXCELSIOR NOTES.

The attendance at the Excelsior literary society last Thursday was an increase of more than 100 per cent over the average attendance for the quarter.

Rev. Snodgrass talked on "Vision and Energy." Leslie Holcomb performed a tricky stunt.

A short business meeting was held, in which it was voted to meet every week, instead of once every two weeks.

Natchitoches, Louisiana is the location of the State Normal School which sends to our exchange desk the college paper, Current Souce. It is a newsy paper full of pep.

State Normal School, Bellingham, Washington, has a regular recreation hour in which the students of the normal participate. The object of the hour is to get students better acquainted with each other, and to create a school spirit.

The Devereaux Players recently presented "The Barber of Seville" before the student body of Rockford College, Rockford, Illinois.

Iva Duke spent the week-end October 25-26 at her home in Stanberry.

"Man is Judged By the Company He Keeps"

The moral of Aesop's fable is to be careful about one's associates. This applies with equal emphasis to one's shopping place.

When we decide upon a store as being worthy our patronage, we want to know that the company behind it is trustworthy; that its merchandise is always as represented and of dependable quality; that its salespeople are men and women of intelligence and ability who will be helpful and courteous.

Put us to that test!

Who Is Your Banker?

This is a question that frequently arises among successful men and women. Most successful persons point with satisfaction to the advantage of a business association with a strong and reliable bank.

All the College students know the bank "with the yellow ojocks"—the bank that took their $12.50 incidental College fee.

This bank stands ready at all times to be of service to the College students.

During the supper, which consisted of salad, sandwiches, wafers and hot chocolate, a musical program was given. It consisted of a piano solo, "Thine Own," by Mary Tolm and a violin solo by Emily Prugh, accompanied by Miss Gladys Andrews.

The young women at the Hall have been granted the privilege of furnishing the kitchenette on their respective floors in the manner in which they think a kitchenette should be equipped. The proceeds of the supper, amounting to about ten dollars will be used in equipping the kitchenette on second floor.

One of the most delightful and enjoyable social events given this quarter was a supper, sponsored by the second floor girls, at Residence Hall, Sunday evening, October 26. The spirit of Halloween was carried out in the yellow candles which were burning here and there and also by the costumes, worn by those who served.

The hiking division of the Woman's Athletic Association, captained by Beatrice Brown, hiked to Arkoo, Friday, October 24. The hike, of ten miles for which five points were given, was covered in two hours and seven minutes.

Those going were: Lucille Sturm, Maria Williams, Kathryn Keplar, Letty Wagenblast, Helen Minnick, and Gertrude Garrett.

The regular meeting of the House Organization was held in the living room of the Residence Hall last Wednesday evening. It was decided to have a short Hallowe'en Program, Friday evening, October 31. The regular twice a month, afternoon dance was postponed until later.

Among those who will receive degrees this year are: Byron D. Murray, now teaching at Keithsburg, Illinois; Stephen G. Lamar, superintendent of Princeton High School; Leslie Summerville, county superintendent of schools; and Leona Badger, now teaching at Los Angeles, California.

Miss Bertha Daniels, English instructor in the State Teachers College at Springfield was the guest of Miss Stowell last weekend during the A. A. U. W. convention. Miss Daniel has taught one summer term here.

It's a Healthy Policy—The Taking Out of Health Insurance

You can't look into the future far enough to tell when you are going to be taken sick. You should take out an insurance policy that guarantees a regular payment of money to you while you are ill. It's a wise move.

The Stroller

By ? ? ? .

The Stroller heard the other day that Miss Painter had decided to take up the study of medicine, and was already prescribing for her classes. He just couldn't believe it, but thought he would find out for sure. So he slipped into one of her classes last Thursday just in time to hear her say, "Class, take one of Bacon's aspharins sometime between now and the football game!" The Stroller fled without waiting for her to finish—so surprised was he. However, he discovered later that she had merely been assigning one of Bacon's "aphorisms" for an essay, to be handed in before the game Friday.

The following "pome" was found in a Spanish student's note book:

Espanol, my espanol,
You're such a doggone study.

You make me burn the midnight oil.

You nearly drive me nutty.

And here's another written by a French student.

Mon francais, Mon beau francais,
To you I'll e'er be true

But you're so hard, si difficile,

I'm almost black and blue.

The Stroller wonders if it is an interest in law which has caused a Winn—some member of the faculty—to indulge in a courtly line of thought.

"Slats," as you all know, is a very business-like Senior. He sends out hundreds of news items every week. Recently he was invited out to dinner by a friend and at the table the host asked him to say grace. It was a new experience, but he was not to be found wanting.

"Dear Lord," he began, "We thank Thee for all thy favors of recent date. Permit us to express our heartfelt gratitude. We trust that we may continue to merit your confidence and that we shall receive many more blessings from you in the future. Amen."

The Stroller was handed this "Lost" item the other day.

Lost: At the Halloween party—a pair of slippers. I think I was wearing them.

Signed: A Chink.

Miss Shepherd took her watch to the hospital last Tuesday. Dr. Raines put the watch under an anesthetic and removed a full-grown bed bug from its stomach! It is the opinion of the laboratory experts that the bed bug entered through the tick.

The Stroller overheard two girls talking at the party the other night; one of them remarked, "O isn't Mr. Terhune's costume clever?" The other girl raised up on her toes, and looked searching over the crowd; finally she said, "Well where is Mr. Huney? There isn't a man in this corner of the gym."

The Stroller was sitting at a table in the library Friday morning when he overheard David Nicholsons make the following remark, "I will have two tests this morning." "How do you know?" asked his fair companion? "Because the social science club met last night and that is a sure sign."

NEWMAN CLUB NOTES.

At the Newman Club Meeting Tuesday morning, Miss Painter addressed them on Venie and the old Cathedrals. St. Mark's Cathedral, which is about one thousand years old, she said, was very wonderful. Behind the high alter is a solid gold plate, six feet by twelve feet, studded with two thousand jewels. When the lights are flushed upon this plate, it is most beautiful.

Verle Pearce gave as a violin solo, "Mother Machree."

One out of every twenty-five college students, that take books out of the library for over night, is fined daily. About 250 books are taken out for over night and ten of these forget to come back until 9:00 a. m. The reasons for keeping the books out late are unknown but as long as they continue to be kept out over time the librarian will be happy to accept your quarter.

College Band Makes an Appeal.

The college band needs more players. Any college or high school student or citizen of Maryville is eligible to belong to the band. Everyone who can play a horn of any description is requested to be in front of the south bleachers at 2:15, November 7, the day we are going to beat Warrensburg.

Mr. Phillips addressed a community meeting at Mercer, Thursday, October 23, on "A program for the Parent-Teachers Association." Thursday October 30 he will speak to the Parent-Teacher Association at Ravenwood on the "Work of the Parent Teachers Association."

Mrs. Ola Davis of Whitesville, a former student was married to Edward Farris of Silver City, Iowa, at Glenwood, Iowa, Oct. 18. Mrs. Farris at present is teaching a rural school near Elmo.

Bynner Offers A Prize For the Best Poem

A prize of one hundred and fifty dollars is being offered by Witter Bynner, noted American poet, to the winner in a poetry contest he has just launched.

The rules of the contest are: first, that this contest is open to undergraduates only; second, that the poem contain not more than two hundred words, but that the contestant may write about a subject of his own choice; third, that the poem must be finished and sent to Witter Bynner, 16 Gramercy Park, New York City, before May 15, 1925.

This is a valuable opportunity for students in our own college who have any ability in verse writing. Why not bring a prize of one hundred and fifty dollars to S. T. C.?

Witter Bynner, who is a successful playwright as well as a poet, was for a number of years assistant editor of McClure's Magazine. He made many contributions to this magazine and later became chief editor. He has come before American audiences repeatedly as a lecturer on poetry and kindred subjects, as it is his object to arouse a greater interest in good literature, especially poetry, among the American people.

He is author of such successful plays as "Iphigenia in Tauris," "Any Girl," and "The Beloved Stranger." Some of his poems are "The Little King," and "A Canticle of Praise." He and Arthur Davidson Fiske are the authors of "Spectra," a book of cleverly preposterous verse to ridicule insincerities in some of schools of modern verse.

EDUCATIONAL NEWS.

The total number of public school teachers in the United States in 1923 is estimated by the Bureau of Education to have been 729,426. This estimate does not include superintendents, supervisors, and principals.

Forty-three per cent of these teachers, or approximately 313,805, are classified as rural teachers. In this classification, rural is interpreted to include open country, country villages, and towns not maintaining independent city systems.

According to statistics filed in the office of state Superintendent of Schools, there are now 24,000 teachers in the state of Missouri; 5000 of these teachers are employed without high school diploma, holding jobs which should be given to better equipped teachers now without teaching positions.

A new course of study for elementary schools has been issued by Superintendent Lee. Miss Elizabeth White, State Supervisor of Rural Schools, unified and co-ordinated the work. The four hundred pages cover fifteen subjects. Twenty recitations are arranged in the daily program.

Nine high schools, all located in small towns have added the teachers' training courses to their curricula, according to Charles A. Lee, Superintendent of Schools. The enrollment in these schools is one third larger than it was last year. Six schools, the majority of which are in large towns, have discontinued the course.

Mr. Lee believes the course was discontinued in these schools because of the financial loss its carrying on involved for the state; since in the larger towns the money was appropriated by the legislature. It is small high schools that, according to Mr. Lee, really need the course.

The dissemination of health information by broadcasting over the radio has grown rapidly since the first health message was delivered in this way by Dr. Hugh S. Cumming of the United States Health Service in July, 1921. Beginning with September, 1921, health talks by radio have been given by the Public Health Service for two fifteen minute periods each week. By February, 1922 six commercial broadcasting stations in different parts of the United States and Canada had secured the privilege of using these lectures. At present forty-eight stations are co-operating. The health talks have been translated into sixteen foreign languages. They average about 1200 words in length and require about ten minutes for delivery.

Swimming for women in College and universities was studied during the past year by Miss Kate Staley of Sayner, Wis. A questionnaire was sent to the 131 colleges recognized by the American Association of University Women. Sixty-four of these responded. Twenty-two of these state that they required swimming as a part of the student's work in college.

Mr. Wells attended the State Library Association at Springfield, Missouri, last Thursday and Friday. He was on the program and spoke on "The High School Library Situation in Missouri."

M. S. T. A. Will Meet in K. C.

Other social affairs are the Missouri University banquet, luncheon of the Deans of Women and a banquet of the Teachers College of Columbia University.

MARYVILLE MIGHT FOLLOW EX-AMPLE.

Missouri Spirit—intangible, undefinable, but famous the country over—was never more in evidence than when the Tiger team backed by 3,000 enthusiastic followers outwrote and out-yelled the University of Chicago on its own field. The work of that team and the loyalty of those Missourians have attracted attention everywhere this fall and again the power of Missouri Spirit has been lauded East and West.

Acting on the suggestions of the Bengal coaching staff the Student Council passed a resolution early in the season asking that no student take a date to a football game and appealing to the University women not to go to games as dates. This resolution is in response to the sentiment that has been created this year against having dates at games and it is in harmony with the great effort that the Tigers are making to give Missouri Valley Championship.

Coaches, many students, and cheer leaders all agree that in order to bring the spirit to the highest pitch and the team to its best fighting point, dates must be barred from games.

Athletic Director Brewer, is especially interested in urging Missouri women to do their best to help the team. "We are all interested in the same thing," he said, "and that is having a football team that will adequately represent our University and the old Tiger Spirit. A football game is not a social event, but a fight, demonstrating and creating fighting spirit. This can best be done when there are no dates but both men and women are free to give all possible assistance to the team and the spirit of the institution. It isn't altogether the noise that counts, rather it's the spirit behind it and girls have more power to create it than boys. They should be virtually interested in their team."

"That problem never occurred when I was a player," said Coach Kipke. "Tradition at Michigan is against that sort of thing and it is nearly a custom that dates are not to be taken to games. The freshmen are grouped at either end of the bleachers and forbidden to have dates. Only out-of-town girls are likely to be accompanied by men."

The Varsity yell leaders are especially strong against dates for games, saying that the sections where the dates are the thickest are always feeblest in yells. They cited the area of the University of Oklahoma, where the cheering is especially strong and where the paddling lines is the sentence for the man who brings a date to a football game.

With the coming of this new sentiment to Missouri it gives promise of an even greater Missouri Spirit and even greater Tiger teams.

We think a practice House would be great fun.

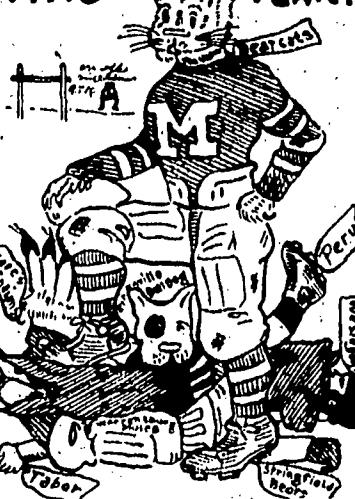

Dr. Daniels said, "a tiny wee baby to practice on."

When the new gymnasium is complete.

We'd like to have this place in which to meet.

OPEN FORUM

HOW DO WE TRIM THEM THIS YEAR?

Fellow students: Stop! Look! Listen! Have you ever noticed the finger prints on the glass doors opening into the Library? Do you like to see them there? Don't you think we could find a better way to push them open than by putting our fingers on the glass? What do you suppose visitors think of our manners?

As one goes up and down the halls he sees posters sticking to nearly every door and at various places over the building. It seems that there is no sacred place in our dear old Alma Mater.

We are not knocking because some one is boasting his favorite candidate for Tower Queen. We are not complaining. We know students have not stopped to think of these things. We merely want to suggest them to you. Think it over.

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Benger and daughter, Maurine, of McFall were visitors at the College Saturday, Oct. 25.

Margaret and Elizabeth Mills and Wilma Cook spent the week-end, Oct. 24-26, with Verne Stanton at her home near Tarkio.

Mrs. Tolin of St. Joseph visited with her daughter Mary Tolin at the Residence Hall, Oct. 25 and 26.

Religious Clubs Give Masquerade Party

The annual Hallowe'en Masquerade party was held at the College library last Tuesday evening. More than 300 were present and the majority were in costume. The masqueraders, led by Temple Allen, master of ceremonies, paraded in review before the judges.

Duane Whitford disguised as "the devil" and Katheren Gray as "the butterfly" were awarded prizes. Miss Estelle Bowman, Miss Mary Fisher and J. W. Wallin acted as judges. The play, "Punk" directed by Miss McClanahan, was given next.
